

Learning Design Sequence

products of the AUTC project on ICT-based learning designs

Medical Radiation Sciences

Intended Learning Outcomes:

- Early student independence, ability to manage own learning processes ;
- Essay writing skills ;
- Library / other information collection skills ;
- Ability to work as a member of a group ;
- Understanding of basic theory in the relevant discipline, including introduction to disease processes and radiation physics and its medical applications;
- Introduction to, but not competence in, basic level of practice in the discipline, including patient assessment, communication, calculations and positioning for medical radiation procedures.